[REDACTED] and I interviewed [REDACTED] on 12 December 1947 since he was in town unexpectedly. He impressed us as being the best engineering candidate we have seen. His modest confidence, his interest in the job, and his intelligent approach to the interview, as well as his apparent thorough grasp of engineering problems, promise a good administrator and seem to compensate for the lack of a formal degree in engineering.

We both recommend requesting his appointment for the P-5 in [REDACTED] but he can return to Washington for an interview if you would prefer to see him first.
